

PERFECT YOUR PROCESS

Digital & Conventional Ophthalmic Coolants

STM630 conventional coolant

STM-630 is a low foam, low surface tension synthetic fluid formulated for conventional plastic lens grinding. Special surfactant chemistry limits subsurface damage to the lens. The formulation also provides corrosion protection and biologic control.

STM640 digital coolant

STM-640 is a low foam synthetic fluid formulated for digital ophthalmic lens grinding. It is designed to provide exceptional corrosion and multi-metal protection of equipment and machinery, and resists biological growth. Innovative chemistry provides lubricity for longer tool life, discourages air entrainment and performs well with centrifuges and media filter systems.
